Supporting Information for Career Conversations

Focus for Career Conversations:

- What they want from their career;
- What steps they are planning to achieve that;
- Examples of what they have done & how they have been done to evidence potential ability against aspirations; and
- How the organisation's current view of their potential fits with those aspirations.

Consider:

- Individuals should be in the driving seat on their careers. They are responsible for planning & taking action. NHSBT can guide them asking the right questions or signposting possible next steps.
- It's OK to be happy where they are in their careers. Not everybody wants to move up the organisation. We still need to support them with their development.
- Avoid assumptions about peoples' aspirations.
- Be honest with individuals. Manage expectations (if they want to go higher but you believe they have reached their potential and will at this time).
- Encourage individuals to consider what successful people do to get on e.g. networking effectively, marketing themselves, gaining / improving visibility.

Key points to explore:

- Performance
- Aspiration
- Engagement
- Ability
- Next Steps

Performance in the current role

- Demonstrated strengths & achievements over the past year?
- What does the individual view as their core strengths? (which may or may not have been demonstrated over the past year)
- What factors would enable the employee to realise more of their strengths?

Aspiration

- How far does the individual's ambition currently extend (in leadership or other roles)?
- To what extent does the individual own and proactively seek out opportunities for learning, development and progression?
- What is the individual's historical track record of fulfilling their career ambitions?
- What are the individual's long term ambitions and what are the external factors that affect these?

Engagement

- Does the individual apply discretionary effort without prompting (e.g. mentor co-workers outside their direct span of control/ help others with heavy workload).
- Do they demonstrate an emotional engagement with the organisation? How is this done?

Ability

- Do they demonstrate the behaviours NHSBT expect of our senior leaders
- Do they meet the range of technical or functional skills needed? (E.g. policy competence or clinical leadership?)
- Do they exhibit the attitudes and responses required for success at the next level? (E.g. drive and energy to get things done, desire to improve performance, resilience, calm under pressure, self-aware and with a healthy regard for self and others).

Focusing on possible next steps for the individual

- What development objectives should be part of the individual's development plan?
- What particular development opportunities and activities would best support the achievement of these development objectives? (E.g. stretch assignments, secondments).
- What can be done and by who to support the individual achieve their career and development objectives?
- What barriers may prevent or block their development? Who owns these barriers?
- How can you help them overcome these?

Prompt questions

Emphasis should be on asking questions to understand what the individual really wants, needs etc. and enabling them to take responsibility for their actions.

What do you want in the future?

- (Helping them to open up a picture of what they really want generates energy and optimism).1-5 years from now what would be the ideal scenario for you? Where do you want to be? (Keep prompting what else?)
- O Where would you be working?
- O What would you be doing?

- O What kind of responsibilities would you have?
- o What size team?
- O What would you be doing?
- O What would you have that you don't have now?
- How is that valuable to you? How important is it to you?
- o How would you know when you've got there?
- O What would it mean to you to achieve this?
- O What will be the benefits of achieving this? And the costs?
- Does this feel realistic?
- O When do you want to achieve it by?

What's happening now?

- (Identifying evidence against the potential characteristics) Ask for examples of when they have been at their best, critical incidents that they found particularly demanding.
- o Affirm and respectfully challenge to help them explore and hear what they say (and don't say). Encourage them to explore the perception of others.
- Emphasis is on their behaviours, skills and actions and also to help them see any blind spots. Listen and reflect back what you hear (paraphrasing, summarising, open questions etc.)
- Tell me about a time when...?
- O How did it feel when...?
- o How does it feel now as you look back on...?
- O What do other people say about their performance, behaviour & what they bring to the role?
- O What personal style helps/hinders them?
- o How do you think others (colleagues, customers etc.) saw/would have seen it/you?
- O What are you proudest of in this situation?
- o And what would you do differently with hindsight?
- O What did you learn from this experience?
- o And what do you still want to develop further?
- O What does this tell you about yourself?
- o What is needed to ensure continuous performance and maintain motivation?
- O What do they do with good ideas?
- O What support do they get/need from manager, peers, and direct reports?
- o How might NHSBT better utilise their skills and experience?
- o Do they influence in areas they don't have 'power' or 'mandate' in?

- o Do they need to develop creativity or business acumen? Are there areas of corporate agenda that could be developed & how could they play a part?
- o Are there areas of corporate agenda that could be developed & how could they play a part?

How will you get there?

- o (Focus on development opportunities encourage individuals to take responsibility and identify the support they will need). Having identified their goals explore possible strategies and specific actions, and considering what might hinder progress. Check out their commitment. What needs to happen to reach this goal?
- O How many different ways are there for you to do this?
- O What /who might help?
- O What will you need to do more or less of?
- O What has worked for others?
- O What has worked well for you in the past?
- O What about some wild ideas?
- O Which of these ideas appeals to you most?
- O What are within your control?
- O What might get in the way?
- O How will you overcome that?
- O What will you do first? What will be the next move?
- O When will that happen?
- O Does this feel like the right thing for you to be doing?
- On a scale of 1-10 how likely are you to take this action by that deadline?
- O What advice would you give yourself as you begin this?

Key Features, demands and challenges in leadership transitions

From Payband 8a-8c To Payband 8d/9 Assistant Director or equivalent

- First corporate leadership point where leader's action, decisions & behaviours are visible & have wider impacts than their own deliverable – they need to deliver through others.
- The pace, volume & breadth & challenge of work all increase, making it a more challenging & exposed role than previously encountered.
- A delivery & change management role with accountability for setting the delivery agenda of a particular operational or policy area.
- Stronger focus on building teams & staff capability than individual goals, taking difficult decisions for the team & providing support & cover.
- The requirement for representing the organisation outwardly, acting for the corporate good & interacting with peers across the organisation & externally increases.

From 8d/9/Assistant Director To Executive Director

- A corporate leader with responsibility & accountability for an organisational area and connectedness to wider system concerns.
- A key strategic delivery role requiring long-term resource & budge management across a portfolio of activities or entity in its entirety.
- Senior level exposure is heightened (working with Board members, ministers, local politicians, the media & high level stakeholders), being a visible leader & influencer become vital leadership skills.
- Higher level of independence in setting & shaping the direction of work around strategic priorities, communicating clear priorities & managing capability & performance to deliver value in the long-terms.
- Role modelling inspirational leadership & system leadership values, a highly visible role where actions & behaviours impact on the culture & performance of teams.

From Executive Director To Chief Executive

- Representative of & accountable at a corporate level for the effectiveness of the organisation & across the system.
- Highly exposed position open to scrutiny, demanding exceptional leadership, influence, strategic & delivery capabilities.
- Operating within a strategic context, navigating high levels of ambiguity & complexity & a long term timeframe.
- Achieving a long-term impact & value on the whole system and 'public purse', setting agendas, driving performance at individual, team & organisational level to achieve value for money and budget.
- Role demands strong leadership & culture across organisation and beyond.
- Engaging in the political arena, building relationships with key stakeholders including DH Permanent Secretary & at senior levels across system and/or executive board.
